Old Way	New Way
Little pink phone messages	Voicemail
Postal delivery	Overnight express
Signing payroll checks	Payroll Service
Letters	E-mail
Traditional phone system	Managed Phone Services

No one really likes their phone system. Now you can say good-bye to out-of-date phone features, inflexible hardware, growth limits, and endless vendor visits. Sylanro Systems™ introduces the first really new idea in office phone services in a long time. With Sylanro's Managed Phone Services, we host everything you need on our system. You outsource your phone services to us and, as with other 'solutions' that are no longer around, you say good-bye to the old way.

Now you get Managed Phone Services - as well as local and long distance, voice mail, conferencing, and Internet access if you choose - from a single reliable source. You get all the services you need and can stop buying, managing, and housing the hardware you don't.

Get the conveniences without the complexities.

Sylanro's Managed Phone Services bring together the best of business phone services with popular mobile phone features and browser-based management capabilities—to make your business communications do what you want them to do.

There's no in-house phone system to buy or manage. No system in your phone room. No software to install. Instead, you get a completely flexible solution that grows with you and provides instant, easy-to-use features and management capabilities at the click of a mouse.

Don't worry. It's not an Internet phone service.

Unlike unreliable Internet phone service, we regulate calls on an 'industrial strength' network to deliver crystal-clear quality.

With Sylanro, you control your own phone services from either the phone display or an incredibly easy-to-use web browser. Either way, you do your own adds, moves, and changes with no vendor in the middle to slow you down.

Suddenly, the frustration is gone; the vendor charges are gone; the phone closet, the tangled phone wires, and the distractions are gone. What's more, the need for a phone expert is gone too. Our solution is so easy to handle that your receptionist can manage phone services for the whole office. Now, at last, you can focus on your business, getting all the conveniences and none of the complexities.

Get features you can actually use without the PhD.

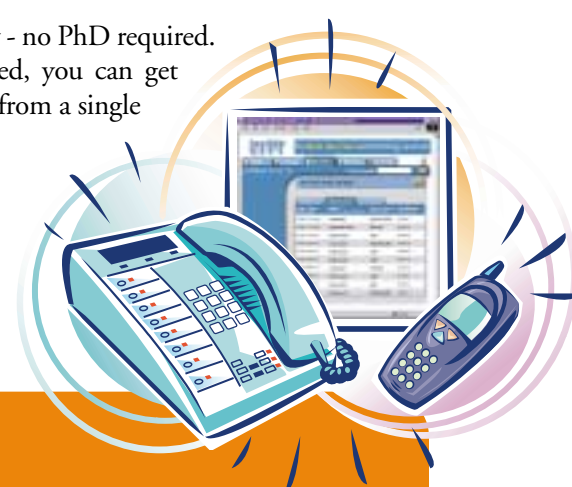

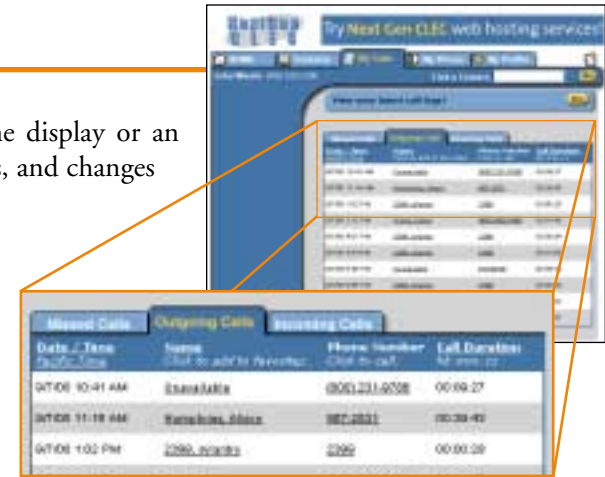

Think about it - can you even use the features on your existing phone system? All those buttons that no one knows how to use. Now that's all gone too. Instead, you get premium office phone capabilities, the mobile phone-like features you love, and an easy-to-use browser combined into one. Finally, you get phone services that work for you.

You get to:

- Return incoming calls with a button push.
- Create and share contact directories to make calls quickly with the click of a mouse or the push of a phone button.
- Forward all your calls or just those from VIPs, to ensure that important people—to your business and your life—always get through.
- Choose the features you want and actually personalize and use the buttons on your phone.

Simple, easy-to-follow user prompts take you every step of the way - no PhD required. And because Sylanro's Managed Phone Services are browser based, you can get updates and add new features as quickly as they become available - all from a single source, with a single bill, and a single dedicated team for 7 x 24 support.

Get the best of multiple worlds - the best of business phone systems, your favorite mobile phone features, and new capabilities made possible with the browser.
